NIGHT ON THE TOWN

Submitted by Reporter-At-Large: Jim Mickel
17 Prime Timers and friends arrived at The Cheesecake Factory, Tuesday night,

January 8th, in downtown Denver. Short wait till they set up the table when we arrived. A few arrived before 6:00.

It was a cold and wintry morning January 12th, snow and wet streets, but the temps were above freezing. 13 Prime Timers attended breakfast at Mimi's Restaurant in spite of the weather. All but one showed up.

This was a repeat for us. A handful of us remembered the delicious Shrimp Scampi so we ordered it again. Whoa! Were we greatly disappointed. It sure wasn't what we remembered. Small shrimp, no garlic butter, with a pile of pasta that was cold. We had to send it back to get it reheated. Cold pasta is not very appetizing. In fact, there wasn't anything mixed with it to make it somewhat exciting. Very disappointing. The other dishes seemed to have passed muster.

The Salted Caramel Cheesecake certainly put a smile back on our faces. A wonderful treat. Can there really be 'Bad Cheesecake'? (Julia says, YES!!!!)

It was a real nice group, making for good conversation. We had a couple of younger fellows join us and it was good to see Thomas Lam and Bob McSherry join us this time.

Thanks, Chuck, a great evening as usual. Our next outing will be Tuesday, March 5th at the 240 Union Grill. 240 Union Blvd., Lakewood, 80228. Change of time, 5:00 pm.

OVER-EASY BREAKFAST

Submitted by Reporter-At-Large: Jim Mickel

It was basically the regular breakfast group. Always nice to get together and enjoy each other. No background noise which made it much easier to converse with one another. Mimi's is noted for their great food and they certainly didn't disappoint us.

Our server, male, kept our coffee cups filled and was very efficient.

I'm sure everyone left happy and full! Thank you, Darrel, for another successful Over-Easy Breakfast event. See everyone next month. (see page 4).

HAND, KNEE, FOOT CARDS

Submitted by Reporter-At-Large: Jim Mickel
Joe Rotello hosted the January 14th card game. Does a great job keeping everyone happy which takes a lot of work, especially for a whole afternoon.

Ten card players attended, twelve signed up. One no call no show. It still worked out very well.

Opps! Ken said he "Scotch Guarded" the card table as he spilled his scotch and water and it ruined most of the cards. There was another time this happened, only it was lemonade. The cards just curl up and wouldn't lay flat. Next time try using a ironing board and iron. This actually works.

This is a Prime Timer activity that we look forward to each month. We will meet again at Paul Hubble's home in February. (see page 4).

MINUTES OF BOARD MEETING, JAN. 2, 2019

Secretary: Ted Carnes

The meeting was brought to order by president Dick Moore at 12:57 p.m. Attending members were: Dick Moore, President; Rafael De Jesus, Vice President; Ted Carnes, Secretary; Bob McSherry, Member-At-Large; Larry Nelson, Treasurer, Larry Jeffries, Membership Chairman; Charles McDonald, Dir. of Special Events, Rick Knoll, Immediate Past Secretary; and Geoff Jones, visitor.

Dick Moore, President, announced that there was a quorum, and handed out the minutes of the December 5th, 2018, Board meeting. Since it was already in the monthly newsletter, the reading was dispensed with, and a motion was made by Larry Nelson, Treasurer, and seconded by Larry Jeffries, to accept the minutes. Unanimous approval was given.

FEBRUARY, 2018

Dick thanked Rick Knoll for his many years of service as secretary. And Charles McDonald congratulated Rick on receiving the White Buffalo Award at the Christmas party.

OLD BUSINESS

Since there was no further old business, Dick called on Bob McSherry, he said he was glad we gave $100 to our waitress at the Golden Corral, Diana Sanchez, for her hard work because someone had ask if we had done the same for Patsy.

Larry Nelson, Treasurer, then gave the Treasurers report, and handed out copies to the board members. (see page 3). He gave a summary of the December expenses, and then talked about the end of the year report. Dick mentioned that we will send out notices to those who wish to advertise in the newsletter next month.

It was announced that next year the club will give an invite to the Harmony Singers to once again entertain us at the Christmas party. Rafael De Jesus moved to accept the report, and Larry Jeffries seconded the motion. It was passed unanimously.

Dick announced that Larry Jeffries would be remaining as Membership Chairman for up to two more years, while a replacement will be looked for. Larry Jeffries reported that our membership presently is at 173.

There were 31 new members who joined in 2018, but we lost 27 members due to moving or just dropping out. We also had 6 pass away, 3 were current members and three had dropped out. The January renewals are moving along quickly, with 10 already paid. Larry Nelson moved to accept the report, and it was seconded by Rafael De Jesus, and it was approved unanimously.

A discussion was had about the Worldwide membership, and that it would include the 164 members, not counting our honorary members at a cost of $328.00 ($2.00 per member). A motion was made by Larry Nelson to stay with them for another year, seconded by Rafael De Jesus. Editor's Note: I wonder what the alternative would be?

Rafael De Jesus, vice president, mentioned that he was very pleased with the new board.

NEW BUSINESS

Dick said he had not heard from Trade as to future Beer Busts for 2019, but he and Rafael would talk with Chris about that. Charles McDonald will be in charge of the Beer Busts now. We may need more volunteers come warmer weather. But whoever helps must stay the full four hours.

By-LAWS

Dick and Rafael said they will go over them in case within the next week or so to make any changes or additions and will get back with the board and membership on any developments.

PRIDEFEST

Dick gave the dates for the event as June 15th and 16th. He will be making arrangements for our booth sometime in January. Dick and Charles McDonald will work together on this.

Charles McDonald announced that the St. Patrick's Day party will be on March 16th, Saturday, at St. Michael's Episcopal Church, S. University, where it was held two years ago. Also mentioned was about the Mountain Picnic, but that there would not be a Halloween party due to lack of interest.

Dick presented a summary of the 2018 attendance at the lunches.

Larry Nelson handed out the budget for 2019 to be reviewed by the board.

Larry Nelson made a motion to adjourn the meeting, and Rafael seconded and of course was quickly and unanimously agreed upon.

The board meeting was adjourned at 1:55 p.m. The next board meeting will be Wednesday, February 6th.

FOOD BANK DONATIONS

A reminder to all members - the first Wednesday of the month, members are asked to bring in a food bank donation if they are able. Phil Wade with MCC of the Rockies Food Pantry will be with us on that Wednesday to collect donations. The Food Pantry can use perishable and non-perishable food items plus hygiene/bath items, deodorants, oral care items . . . toothpaste, tooth brushes, mouthwash and infant/child supplies (diapers, wipes, etc.)

Let Me Finish

Dick Moore, President

In this day of chaos all around us, I thought this story would lighten everything up a bit. Especially for the wine lovers in the chapter.

After a woman was banned from Walmart for concealing booze in a potato chip container, I had to know . . .

I'm not totally crazy. If you saw the news about the woman who was banned from a Walmart in Wichita Falls, Texas, for drinking wine out of a Pringles can while driving around the parking lot on an electric shopping cart at about 6:30 am in the morning.

Clearly, this viral story comes with a lot to unpack, so is it wrong that my first instinct was, "Wait . . . Can you really drink wine out of Pringles cans?" Obviously, there's only one way to find out. And thankfully, I had a can of Pringles Wavy Fire Roasted Jalapeno at the ready and a half-drunk bottle of Graffigna 2016 Malbec from the night before . . . because if your drinking wine out of a Pringles can, you definitely don't want to crack open your best bottle.

In testing the viability of Pringles' packaging as a wine vessel, I decided on a scientific approach, so let me walk you through my key findings . . .

You should definitely dump out the chips, but you don't need to rinse out the can . . . because it's going to smell like Pringles regardless.

A Pringles can would appear to be, first and foremost, a wine disguise . . . and a hasty one at best. So for my first taste test, I tried pouring the wine in the can unrinsed. Though I expected the results to be gross, only the aroma was really destroyed by that scent of Pringles powder. Once the wine hit my palate, I was startlingly unoffended (all things considered, of course). In fact, though rinsing out the can helped get rid of some little powder bits, the scent of Pringles remained strong regardless. You could probably clean the tin further to try and get the smell out, but at that point, you've way over committed.

A Pringles can is actually the perfect size to hold an entire bottle's worth of wine.

Intuition tells you that a Pringles tin is about the size of a bottle of wine, but the reality is almost too perfect. The 750 milliliters of liquid found in a bottle of wine fills a can of Pringles to the point where you're left with about two inches of room at the top . . . the perfect amount of space to start sipping from. It's practically uncanny (pun intended).

A Pringles can is waterproof . . . and the top will hold in liquids surprisingly well.

So we've proved that a Pringles can can hold wine, but how does it work as a wine transporting device? After leaving my can filled with water for the duration of this writing (about an hour), it showed no signs of leakage. Even more miraculous, if you put the plastic top back on, you can turn the tin upside-down and even give it some light shaking without much spillage at all. Would I bet my life that after a few hours or a bumpy ride you wouldn't end up with red wine stains on your pants? No. But if you're wearing an old pair of jeans, the Pringles can doesn't seem like it would let you down.

Overall, I wouldn't recommend drinking wine out of a Pringles can . . . but the choice was actually quite inspired.

Look, I am not going to tell you to drink wine out of a Pringles can: The aroma alone is off-putting enough that it's truly a last-ditch solution. That said, as last-ditch solutions go, a Pringles can has suddenly and unexpectedly shot up the mental list I didn't even know I had things to drink wine out of in a pinch: It holds the right amount of liquid, doesn't immediately leak, and is even somewhat resealable. I'm also not going to say someone riding around on a Walmart parking lot at 6:30 am in the morning, drinking wine out of a chip container is a genius, but clearly, she knew something that many of us had never even considered before. That's gotta be worth something, right? You know, other than a lifetime ban from Walmart?
